A Forum for the Arts
March 29 - April 1, 2007

DIWAN: A Forum for the Arts unites Arab-American artists, scholars and performers representing myriad academic fields and artistic genres. Activities include presentation of new research into Arab-American arts; poetry and prose readings; film screenings, and musical performances. This three-day dialogue reinforces AANM's commitment to providing a place for community members and artists to meet, exchange ideas and exhibit their work. It also encourages audiences to explore the boundaries of art in addressing social and cultural issues related to Arab Americans and to the community at large. All sessions are open to the public.
