Biography

Emile Abou Samra was born in Marjayoun, Lebanon in 1918. He studied at a French university in Lebanon and the Egyptian College of Journalism. He later served as a Director of Public Security for the Lebanese government, as the Executive Secretary of the Port of the City of Beirut and as a security inspector for Lebanon in the 1940s. He married Ruth Farha in 1950 and immigrated to the United States where he owned and operated a textiles business until his retirement in 1988. Throughout his life, Samra contributed articles to Arabic language newspapers. Samra passed away in 2006 in Saginaw, Michigan.

Scope and Content Note
